ROUND ROCK – Republican businessman, Larry Gonzales, today received notice from the Texas State Rifle Association (TSRA) that he has earned the distinction of being an “A rated candidate” for the 2010 election year.

In a letter from TSRA Legislative Director, Alice Tripp, Gonzales was thanked for participating in the 2010 Texas Candidate Questionnaire and was told the membership of the TSRA would be notified of his “A” rating.

“I am pleased with the “A” rating from the Texas State Rifle Association,” Gonzales said. “I have been an advocate of gun owner’s rights and a strong supporter of the Second Amendment through the years. Now, hopefully, I will have the opportunity to be their advocate as a voting Member of the Texas House of Representatives.”

The Texas State Rifle Association is the NRA state affiliate. You can learn more about the organization at www.tsra.com.
